House Nears Nip-Tuck Neutrality Vote Claim Capture Of Defenses In Kerch Area

FDR FOREIGN POLICY RULE IN BALANCE

DEMAND STRIKE CURB

Rayburn 'To Take Floor For Bill To Send U. S. Ships To Combat Ports.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt's prestige in matters of foreign policy hung precariously in the balance today, as a tense and closely divided house drove hourly nearer to a vote on the senate's broad formula for neutrality act revision.

"A photo finish," concluded Rep. McCormack (Mass.) the house majority leader. Republican opponents, reinforced by dissatisfied Democrats, were openly optimistic. "We have this bill licked," they claimed.

Speaker Rayburn (D., Tex.) still insisted, however, that when the final roll call came, the house would approve the senate revision amendments allowing American merchantmen to go to belligerent ports and operate in combat zones.

Nevertheless, Rayburn disclosed that he intended to take the floor himself in behalf of the legislation—an extremely unusual thing for the speaker—and he was closed with Mr. Roosevelt for an hour last night at the White House, reviewing the whole neutrality situation.

From what Rayburn said, the decision was to have the vote late today at the conclusion of the remaining three hours of debate.

Leaders in both camps conceded that last-minute developments might have a decisive influence on the vote, but as the house convened an hour early today everything pointed to a hairbreadth decision.

WAIT REQUEST

Congressmen Expect Call For 5 Billions More For Army.

WASHINGTON — House appropriations committee members said today that they expect President Roosevelt to submit a new army expansion program, amounting to at least $5,000,000,000, to congress within the next few days.

Rep. Cannon (D., Mo.), chairman, said tentative arrangements were made by the deficiency appropriations subcommittee to consider new army requests next week.

The proposed expenditures, it was said by other members, would be a part of the "victory program" of the administration, which includes expansion of the air and armored forces of the army.

Dorothy Thompson Wants to Divorce Sinclair Lewis

WOODSTOCK, Vt. — (INS) — Charging "wilful desertion," a suit for divorce by Dorothy Thompson, commentator and newspaper columnist, against Sinclair Lewis, author and playwright, today was on file in Windsor county court.

The petition, returnable at the December term of court, was served on Lewis in New York.

In the petition, Miss Thompson alleges Lewis, whom she married in London in 1928, deserted her early in 1936 and that they have not lived together since. She seeks custody of their only child, Michael Lewis, a student at exclusive Riverdale on the Hudson school.

Miss Thompson's legal residence is in Twin Farms in Barnard, a small village near Woodstock.

YOUNGSTOWN — (P) — Crossing a street near his home, Julius H. Day, 45, Girard funeral director, was struck and killed by an automobile.

HOLD DEFENSE 'SCHOOL' HERE

FBI Arranges Training Course For Mansfield and Central Ohio Officers.

A six-day civilian defense training course for Mansfield policemen and law enforcement officers from north central Ohio will be held in Mansfield from April 10 to 18, FBI officials in Washington announced today.

The course will be one of 260 to be conducted throughout the country by the FBI and were requested by Mayor Fiorella La Guardia, director of civilian defense.

The training sessions will be for subordinate officers who will handle civilian defense work and will be a follow-up on schools for police chiefs and other police executives now in operation in 55 leading cities.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates left for Cleveland early today to attend a two-day session for police chiefs from northern Ohio.

Among many things to be taught at the session Bates is attending and at the six-day course to be given next April will be the handling of espionage, sabotage, subversive activity, air raids, priorities, radio, protection of property, utilities, blackouts and evacuation.

Courses similar to the one to be held here will be held at Canton, Portsmouth, Zanesville, Steubenville, Athens, Lima and Ashland, Ky.

RE-APPOINTS NESS

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Mayor Frank J. Lausche today re-appointed Eliot Ness as Cleveland's safety director.

Make Official Findings In Rail Wreck Which Killed 12

An inquiry conducted yesterday at Fort Wayne, Ind., confirmed that the Pennsylvania railroad's crack passenger train, the "Pennsylvanian," was derailed at Dunkirk Sunday by a cylinder head blown from a freight train passing in the opposite direction on an adjoining track, it was announced today.

Two Mansfielders were among the 12 persons killed when the east-bound flyer piled up almost in front of the tiny station at the village 53 miles west of the city.

Among the some 40-odd injured was Mrs. William P. Sheets, 355 Marion avenue, who was on route home from a vacation in California.

She is still in McKittrick hospital at Kenton, where most of the injured were taken. Relatives said attendants reported that she would recover and could be expected to return to Mansfield within a week or 10 days. She suffered a severe skull injury.

Funeral services were held in Akron yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. Leo Avington, 110 Blymyer avenue, both of whom lost their lives in the accident. They were en route from Chicago after a week-end visit with relatives.

Meanwhile, the body of the 12th victim was identified as Miss Jean Schimmelfeng, 51, Chicago advertising agency employee using the name of Ann Davis for business purposes.

Her body, which remained unidentified for three days will be sent from an Ada mortuary to Warren, Pa., where her sister and mother reside.

ANTI-STRIKE LAW LOOMING IF TALKS FAIL

Congress Set To Act Quickly as President Renews Labor Peace Attempt.

DEFENSE THREATENED

Coal, Rail Strikes Scheduled; Roosevelt Calls Lewis, Steel Men To White House.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON — (UP) — Federal coal coordinator Harold L. Ickes said today that coal stocks at steel mills generally are enough to last 31 days regardless of the labor situation, although some mills would be pinched sooner than that in event of a new strike in their captive mines.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt again took personal charge today of administration efforts to prevent a breakdown of voluntary mediation of defense labor disputes and to avert a threatened strike in coal mines owned by steel companies.

Administration leaders indicated that if his efforts fail, anti-strike or compulsory mediation legislation would follow quickly.

Congress is ready to start action on short notice, although Mr. Roosevelt might use only his executive power to set up new machinery for labor disputes if the national defense mediation board collapses.

A strike in the so-called "captive" pits would threaten defense production since steel mills are geared to use only coal from their own mines.

Serious as such a tie-up would be, informed labor officials regarded as potentially more damaging to the smooth operation of the defense program the increased (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6)

OFFERS TREATY

U. S. Would Exempt British Property From Local Tax.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The United States has proposed a treaty with Great Britain which would exempt all English defense property in this country from local taxation, members of the senate foreign relations committee disclosed today.

"This would amount to another gift of about $1,000,000,000 to the British," Sen. Clark (D) Mo., declared after a closed session of the committee. "I don't know whether the municipalities would like it or not, but I sure want to find out."

Members said the proposed treaty would exempt all lend-lease goods destined for Britain from property taxation by local areas.

As Cars Crashed on Slippery Route 30 Today

Only a few minutes after another auto had skidded and overturned at the same point, these two cars, pictured above, met in a head-on collision on U. S. Route 30, three miles east of the city. The drivers told state highway patrolmen they had skidded on the slippery pavement. Mrs. Harry Simon, Inwood, N. Y., driver of the car at the left of the picture, suffered cuts and bruises while Raymond Kinder, 18, Mifflin NYA center, was fined $25 and costs in municipal court for operating an auto without a driver's license.

THREE INJURED AS AUTOS SKID

Two Accidents on Same Spot on Route 30 Send Trio To Hospital Here.

In two accidents occurring almost simultaneously at the same point on U. S. route 30, three miles east of Mansfield, three persons escaped serious injury this morning after their automobiles had skidded on the slippery pavement.

A few minutes after an auto driven by Dorothy E. Rusk, Mansfield R. D. 4, skidded into a ditch and overturned, two other cars met in a head-on collision at the same spot.

State highway patrolmen reported that auto driven by Raymond Kinder, 18, of the Mifflin NYA camp, and Mrs. Harry Simon, 53 Inwood, N. Y., collided after Kinder's car skidded and swerved in front of Mrs. Simon's auto.

Mrs. Simon suffered cuts about the nose and cuts and bruises on the right knee. Kinder was arrested on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without an operator's license and was fined $25 and costs in Municipal court by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch.

Mrs. Simon was taken to General hospital along with Miss Rusk, and her sister Naomi Rusk, who were injured in the first accident. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

It does not include memberships received in house to house solicitations or in groups that have not attained a 100 per cent quota.

The county quota of 22,000 members fixed by national headquarters is now being sought by an army of 650 volunteer Roll Call workers stationed throughout the Richland (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Pleads Not Guilty In Gambling Case at Inn

Alleged Operator of Mayfair Where Roulette Wheel, Slots Were Found, Released on Bond of $1,000.

Arrested in mid-afternoon yesterday by Sheriff Frank E. Robinson on a charge of "keeping and exhibiting for gain certain gambling devices," George Talbot, 38, cited following night, pleaded innocent before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston late yesterday and was released a short time later on $1,000 bond.

Three deputy sheriffs and a state liquor inspector found gambling equipment with an estimated value of $18,000 in a second floor room at the tavern in a raid Tuesday evening. Talbot, who gave his address at Lorain, was on duty in the tavern and unlocked the upper room for officers, they said.

Talbot's plea was submitted to Judge Huston by Attorney J. V. Will, one of the two Mansfield lawyers representing Talbot. The other is John C. O'Donnell.

Judge Huston immediately set Talbot's bond at $1,000, double the amount that had been set by municipal court Tuesday night. Talbot was taken to the sheriff's quarters at the county jail where he arranged surety bond through the Summit Fidelity and Casualty company, Akron. He was released about (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

Claim Capture Of Defenses In Kerch Area

Russians Say Attacks on Strait Port and Sevastopol Beaten Back; Sharp Battle Raging on Both Sides of Moscow.

(By Associated Press) Adolf Hitler's high command said today that German assault troops were storming the fortifications of Kerch, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, and had already captured several coastal defense points south of the town.

Reuters, the British news agency, quoted the home radio as announcing that German and Rumanian forces had occupied the port, which lies on a narrow strait separating the Crimea from the Caucasus mainland.

Dispatches to the Soviet newspaper Pravda, however, asserted that Red army troops had beaten off a German attempt to turn the Russian lines in the Kerch area.

"The German attacks were repulsed by the joint efforts of land troops, aircraft and naval forces," Pravda said. Russian front-line reports said the Germans were "equally unsuccessful" in fighting near Sevastopol, key Black sea naval base at the southwest tip of the Crimea, and that repeated Nazi tank assaults "failed to break through our defenses."

German bombers were pictured furiously at Soviet ships which might be used to evacuate Red army troops from the peninsula. A Nazi communiqué reported that three cruisers, a destroyer and five large merchant ships were badly damaged in nearby waters.

On the central front, Soviet dispatches declared that fierce battles were raging on both flanks of Moscow's 200-mile defense arc — at Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of the capital, and at Tula, 100 miles south.

At Tula, where the Germans were reported driven back five miles yesterday, a Soviet correspondent gave this account of the battle: "Our artillery fire destroyed the enemy fortifications at the approaches to the city. Retreating from the line, the enemy left hundreds of dead and wounded and anti-aircraft guns, tractors and automatic rifles. Fighting is now going on outside the city."

SEE NEW EFFORT FOR FINN PEACE

Washington Observers Believe U. S., Britain Will Renew Diplomatic Moves.

WASHINGTON — The United States and Great Britain may renew their efforts to end Russo-Finnish hostilities, diplomatic sources reported today, and undertake to work out some satisfactory guarantee for Finland's security against future attack.

The informed belief here was that the Helsinki government had left the diplomatic door open for further discussions along such lines, even though its note to the state department did reject Russia's initial overtures for peace.

American officials were non-committal on the subject, pending a thorough study of the note which set forth the Finns' position. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 7)

KILLED BY TRAIN

SPRINGFIELD — (P) — W. Stanley Snarr, 39, conductor for the New York Central railroad, was killed by a passenger train when he walked from a cut of freight cars to open a switch.

Lumber and other materials for the new $6,000 bridge have arrived and are stored at the county garage near the bridge, C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, said today.

"We plan to start work on the bridge next week and expect to have it ready in six weeks, maybe sooner if the weather is favorable," Mitchell said. "We will put our best men on the job and rush it along."

The commissioners decided on the wooden bridge after the state highway department asked them to pay half the cost of a $40,000 cement and steel structure. Arguing that a wooden structure would serve the purpose just as well and could be built much cheaper, commissioners held out for the $6,000 bridge despite the protests of city officials and state highway department.

Telephone Strike, Set for Tomorrow, Would Affect City

If a threatened strike of 15,000 long-distance telephone operators and maintenance workers in 42 states called for midnight tomorrow becomes effective, Mansfield will be cut off from telephonic communication with other states.

Local Ohio Bell Telephone officials announced that although the 33 long-distance operators employed here would not be immediately affected by the strike, calls going or coming outside Ohio would be held up because of the probable walkout of "long-line" operators at Cleveland.

Mansfield operators are members of the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers, an independent union, but do not actually handle the "long-line" calls. The Ohio Bell Telephone company routes all calls of the A. T. & T. in this area through Cleveland.

In addition to the telephone calls, the transmission of news by teletype and relaying of signals for chain radio broadcasting would (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

NAZIS STORMING GATEWAY CITY TO CAUCASUS

Claim Capture of Defenses Near Kerch; Reds Say Attacks Repulsed.

front armies, had moved up a division of Hitler's elite guards in the Volokolamsk sector, 65 miles northwest of the capital, in preparation for a new assault there.

London military quarters reported that the Nazis were apparently girding for a new offensive against Moscow at several points despite enormous losses already suffered in the 42-day-old drive on the Soviet capital.

Authoritative London quarters said 16 German armored divisions and 70 infantry divisions—perhaps 1,290,000 troops—had suffered "appreciable casualties" and that in some instances, Nazi losses ran as high as 50 per cent.

Eight Nazi armored divisions were withdrawn from the front early in September after two phases of "furious and exceptionally heavy fighting," these quarters said, and have only reappeared in action in the last few days.

"Bitter fighting is continuing in conditions in which frost, snow and mud are additional causes for casualties," the source said.

London military observers said Hitler's high command was still baffled in attempts to find a "soft spot" in Moscow's defense ring.

"The Germans have hit the defenders at so many spots and found them capable of either wounding them or taking punishment where they are wondering where to hit next," observers said.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters said German planes had "effectively" bombed Moscow and Leningrad again, and that heavy Nazi batteries shelled Leningrad and the harbor of Kronstadt. Soviet island naval base in the Gulf of Finland.

In the Far East crisis, the Japanese government was reported preparing today for "a hostile situation" in the event that negotiations with the United States collapse—an eventuality freely predicted by some quarters in Washington.

Senator Murray (D., Mont.), a member of the foreign relations committee, declared "there is a definite possibility" that the United States may go to war with Japan and said the mission of Japan's special envoy, Shunro Kuruu, appeared "pretty futile."

Kuruu, making a stopover in Honolulu on his flight to Washington, said it was the common responsibility of the United States and Japan to keep peace in the Pacific and he described his task as "very important and very difficult."

Unofficially, Kuruu is said to bear a "last chance" offer to the United States to avoid an explosion in the Orient by recognizing Japan's "co-prosperity sphere" in east Asia and halting aid to China.

Commenting on Prime Minister Winston Churchill's statement that Great Britain would fight alongside the United States in a war with Japan, Kuruu declared: "He might as well have said he would have breakfast in the morning."

Senator Murray told reporters that "Japan must get out of China if there is to be any agreement."

In Tokyo, new emergency legislation was made ready for the special session of the Japanese diet beginning Saturday, and Japan's Premier Hideki Tojo, Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo and Finance Minister Okada Kiyasu submitted to Emperor Hirohito both the program and speeches they will make to the diet.

Report 25,000 Jews Killed At Odessa
NEW YORK—(INS)—Mass execution of 25,000 Jews by Rumanian troops in the captured Russian Black seaport of Odessa, Oct. 23, was reported today in a British radio broadcast heard by NBC.

The British announcer charged that after 220 Rumanian soldiers were killed by a Soviet tank bomb, 25,000 Odessa Jews—men, women and children—were herded into the military barracks.

There, said the broadcaster, in one of the biggest mass executions in history, the Jews were mowed down by squads of Rumanian machine-gunners, after which the barracks were set on fire.

be seriously disrupted, in the event of a strike.

Mansfield operators, a spokesman said, have received no strike orders as yet and consequently will not leave their jobs at the strike deadline. They would be unaffected unless the strike order is extended to inter-state communications.

John J. Moran, president of the union, called the strike today in New York City, announcing that at the stroke of 12 tomorrow night all operators would quit their jobs, with the exception of those handling communications connected with defense.

The strike was called following a breakdown in negotiations between the union and officials of the A. T. & T. Moran said the strike, which was approved by a vote of the membership on Nov. 3, was called to bolster the union's demands for a four per cent wage increase and a narrowing of geographic pay differentials.

The union leader said that the strike would affect all states except Washington, Oregon, New Hampshire, Vermont, Nevada and Montana.

HOUSE NEARS NIP-TUCK VOTE ON NEUTRALITY

FDR Foreign Policy Prestige Hangs In Balance as Dem Group Revolts.

that some presidential move might be imminent to strengthen Mr. Roosevelt's hand on the neutrality issue, but nothing came from the White House to bear it out.

Mr. Roosevelt put himself publicly on record for broad neutrality revision in his Navy day speech, Oct. 27. He praised the senate foreign relations committee for eliminating the "hamstringing provisions" prohibiting ships from entering combat zones of belligerent ports.

The unlooked-for defections of many southern, western and eastern Democrats who have hitherto been strong supporters of the president's foreign policies gave the majority chiefs their biggest worry.

These congressmen, like others in the regular opposition, took the position that it would be tantamount to a declaration of war if American ships were permitted to enter combat zones and belligerent ports. They also demanded that strikes in defense industries be curbed first.

Signs of the growing opposition appeared in the opening hours of debate yesterday. Of the 39 speakers who took the floor, nearly a dozen opposing the amendments had voted on Oct. 17 for the original house revision measure which was limited to the arming of merchant ships.

Since then the senate enlarged the bill to give such vessels unrestricted freedom of the seas. Approval of the senate amendments by the house would send the legislation to the White House.

Should the house reject the resolution as amended by the senate, it would go to a conference committee where efforts would be made to reach some agreement on the legislation agreeable to both chambers.

Reports of individual workers are just beginning to come in, according to L. W. Birch, county Roll Call chairman, who predicted a good showing from the county, which seeks 3,000 members exclusive of Mansfield and Shelby. Shelby is conducting its own drive for 3,700 members.

Two cash contributions of $50 each from Earl McVey Post of the American Legion and Legion auxiliary had been received by Roll Call headquarters today and other cash contributions are anticipated from the drive ends Nov. 30.

Roll Call headquarters will remain open daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Miss Lepore Van Gundia, executive secretary, announced, and workers are urged to make their daily reports to headquarters rather than to their respective captains so that they can be immediately filed.

Firms announcing a 100 per cent membership since yesterday include Geiger Funeral home, Wapner Funeral home, Cole's Machine shop and Ricketts and Nichols Printing company. Fred Kelly of Farm Tools, Inc., was in charge of Roll call for that industry, managed by C. A. Hines.

ANTI-STRIKE LAW LOOMING

ing possibility that the CIO's bolt from the mediation board might be the death knell of that agency.

Another serious labor situation facing the president is the threat of the railway brotherhoods to strike beginning Dec. 7. The unions rejected Mr. Roosevelt's fact-finding board's recommendation, but observers believed that the president would intervene to prevent a strike which would tie up much of the defense program.

Mr. Roosevelt has summoned United Mine Workers and steel company officials to the White House tomorrow for a conference that some officials believe may be the "long-awaited showdown" between the president and UMWA President John L. Lewis.

The White House conference coincides with a meeting of the UMWA policy board called by Lewis to consider a coal strike.

Those asked to the White House were Lewis, CIO President Philip Murray, UMWA Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy, Eugene C. Grace of Bethlehem Steel corporation, Benjamin F. Fairless of U. S. Steel corporation, and Frank Purnell of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube corporation. A spokesman for Lewis said he would attend and the others were expected to do likewise.

Both Murray and Kennedy quit the mediation board Tuesday after it voted, 9-2, to reject Lewis' demand for a union shop in the captive mines. Lewis has been silent on the board's decision and the CIO bolt from the board.

The mine workers' officials will take a report of the presidential conference to the policy board meeting. A decision on a coal strike is expected to be made a few hours later.

Levis, in agreeing two weeks ago at the insistence of President Roosevelt to end a three-day strike and submit the dispute to the mediation board, set Saturday, Nov. 15, as the date when the truce would expire.

The threat of a renewal of the strike, and its possible spread to other coal mines, arose immediately from the board's rejection of Lewis' demand for a union shop. Virtually all other coal mines now operate under a union shop agreement.

Labor leaders believed Lewis could count on support of nine union officials in a strike call. They differed as to whether the rank-and-file would remain out against a presidential plea to their patriotism.

Murray has angrily denounced the 9-2 majority decision of the board and implied a threat to withhold all CIO disputes from it. The CIO policy committee will decide that question Sunday in Detroit.

Developments during the past 48 hours included: the resignation of Murray and Kennedy from the mediation board and John Owens, president of UMWA district 6 and CIO head in Ohio, from the OPM, and withdrawal of three disputes from board consideration.

John Brophy, director of CIO industrial union councils, quit as a board alternate, and James Carey, CIO secretary, was reported to have sent in his resignation as an alternate. At least three of five other CIO alternates were reported ready to resign.

Emil Rieve, president of the CIO textile workers, and Herbert Payne, vice president of the same union, have not indicated whether they will resign. Both are close friends of Sidney Hillman, associate OPM director and the only high former CIO official holding an appointive government job definitely not expected to resign.

tion and their insistence upon guaranteed security for their little republic.

Secretary Hull gave the only hint of possible future action when he voiced the hope yesterday that an analysis would disclose that Finland was not irrevocably committed to collaboration with Nazi Germany.

In diplomatic quarters much significance was attached to the concluding portion of the Finnish note which stated:

"The supreme task which Providence at the present juncture has assigned the United States for the remedying of prevailing conditions and ensuring the existence of millions of human beings, would be achievement of a permanent state of law between nations that would enable also a small nation to feel its existence secure."

Again and again the necessity of a guaranteed future security for Finland was emphasized in the lengthy note, made public here late yesterday by Hjalmar J. Procopé, the Finnish minister.

"Finland," the note said, "is desirous of terminating the struggle as soon as the danger threatening her existence has been averted and guarantees created for continuous security."

However, any cessation of fighting was unacceptable if it was to be merely an interlude in Finland's "incessant self-defense against (Russia's) imperialistic strivings."

The Finnish note was in answer to diplomatic overtures by the United States during the last three months to end the Finnish-Russian war.

The United States took the position that, now that Finland has regained territory previously lost to Russia, continued fighting can only serve to aid Germany, particularly in cutting Russia's supply lines from Murmansk and Archangel, ports through which Anglo-American aid is reaching the Soviets.

DENIES CHARGE IN TAVERN CASE

Alleged Operator Pleads No Guilty To Gambling Count; Free on $1,000 Bond.

5:15 p. m. without spending any time in jail.

Judge Huston told the defense counsel that it probably would be two weeks before the case can be heard since there is a heavy schedule of cases on the calendar in common pleas court. Atty. Will said today that he and O'Donnell had not decided whether to ask for a jury trial or submit the case to Judge Huston.

Sheriff Robinson took Talbot into custody on a Mansfield street yesterday afternoon. Formal charges against Talbot were filed about 11 a. m. yesterday by the sheriff after he had conferred with Judge Huston and Prosecutor Harold Lutz.

Sheriff Robinson said Talbot's attorneys called him yesterday afternoon and said they understood he was looking for Talbot, adding that they would come to the county jail with him. Before they arrived, however, the sheriff started for Talbot's hotel and met Talbot near Central park.

By filing the charges in common pleas court, Sheriff Robinson disregarded the municipal court proceedings Tuesday night when Talbot was released under $500 bond before he was formally charged. Prosecutor Lutz termed the acceptance of a bond before the filing of formal charges as "irregular."

State liquor department officials at Columbus told The News-Journal today that the Mayfair Inn, on U. S. Route 30-N eight miles west of Mansfield, will retain its liquor permit until the liquor board revokes it.

They said evidence obtained by Inspector John Barlow who visited the tavern Tuesday afternoon and accompanied county officers on the raid Tuesday night will be submitted to the liquor board at a hearing within a week or 10 days. The board then will decide the case.

The confiscated gambling equipment, including nine slot machines, two dice tables, a roulette table, and a card table, is being held by Sheriff Robinson at the county jail until Judge Huston issues an order for disposal of it.

The second-story room where the equipment was found had a rear entrance with a bullet-proof room overlooking it. The equipment apparently was new.

State liquor officials said today the fact that the room containing the devices was not directly connected with the tavern "won't make any difference in the filing of the complaint" against Talbot with the liquor board.

"A liquor inspector found the devices on the premises and under the same roof where liquor is sold, and that's sufficient evidence for filing a gambling charge," an assistant to Liquor Director Jacob Taylor said.

Railroad Strike Ordered

AS NEARLY as can be judged from yesterday's strike order, issued by chiefs of the five operating brotherhoods in the railroad industry, the United States will be without railway service, starting December 7—which is three weeks from next Sunday.

That is the decision of spokesmen for the 350,000 operating employees of the nation's railroads—a decision that may be presumed to have been reached after calm and careful consideration of the calamitous results of such action.

It is quite obvious that without their 350,000 operating employees, plus the 900,000 employees in non-operating crafts, railroads would be compelled to suspend services and everyone in the nation would suffer inconvenience or actual hardships as a result.

The national set-up for arbitration of recurrent railway labor controversies has been regarded as so well-nigh perfect that the impression has been quite prevalent that a general strike of railroad employees was not to be feared.

Now, however, there has been rejection of President Roosevelt's fact-finding board's recommendations and renewal of a strike threat is introduced into the proceedings.

It appears that wage-increase demands of railroad employees totaled around $900,000,000 a year; that the railroads offered increases to the extent of almost $100,000,000 and that the fact-finding board's recommendations put the increase at $270,000,000.

While there is still a little more than three weeks for further negotiations, and possible government action, before the strike date, the present situation cannot be regarded as other than serious—for without railroad transportation the nation's defense and aid program would be shot to pieces—a fact that was probably given full consideration before the strike call was issued. Or wasn't it?

Gambling Equipment Seized In Raid

SEIZURE of elaborate gambling paraphernalia in an upstairs room at one of Richland county's rural night clubs provides a considerable shock to the people of this community.

It has been recognized as a policy of Richland county sheriffs, and other county law enforcement officials, for a number of years, that commercialized gambling operations were taboo in this county—even to the extent of banning Jack pot slot machines, more generally known as "one-arm bandits."

Aggressive action in Cleveland, Columbus, and some other large Ohio cities, against gambling places and professional gamblers, resulted in some transfers of equipment and operatives to other places and rumors have been in circulation for a number of months that the Mansfield area was to be one of the favored spots.

There has been a feeling of confidence, however, that the attitude of Richland county enforcement officials and courts were too well understood to encourage any such experiment in law violation of that kind.

The variety and ornateness of gambling equipment unearthed in the Tuesday night raid, and the elaborate precautions taken to guard the premises against surprise approach, indicate professional experience and skill in setting up such a place.

The only thing lacking, apparently, was realization that such an outfit could not operate very long in the vicinity of a small city without being detected, after which its operators could not hope to continue without official connivance.

It may be that outside gamblers are somewhat confused about the Richland county attitude toward gambling places as a result of the hazy position taken in such matters by city law enforcement authorities, who attempt to draw a line between kinds of illegal gambling that shall be tolerated and kinds that shall not be permitted.

Mayor Opposes Wooden Bridge

SECOND thought may be best, and Mayor Locke's disinclination to sign the council resolution sanctioning construction of a wooden bridge over Touby's run on North Main street seems to serve as a better statement of the city's position than did council's action in voicing protest against the wooden bridge and then passing a resolution to accept a wooden structure—instead of none.

County commissioners have expressed determination to build a wooden bridge—despite protests—but why hurry?

The bottle-neck bridge has served at this point on a heavily-trafficked highway for around two and a half years and motorists have gradually become accustomed to the inconvenience and danger resulting from the long and inexcusable delay.

If, by reason of further collapse, the highway is made totally impassable at this place, it will be possible, of course, to detour traffic by way of Sixth, Mulberry and Orchard or Harker streets, so as to entirely miss this section of Main street.

A statement issued within the past few days shows that Richland county has operated within its income during the past year, and will finish the year with a surplus. This inclination toward economical operation of county business is commendable—but it does appear that wise expenditure of funds sufficient to carry through necessary public work in a manner fitted to modern times is also commendable.

Moose Become Aggressive

THERE have been many reports in recent years of the increase in wild life in America. The most startling one current comes from Maine where farmers on their own land, motorists on the highways and even people on village streets have been chased about by wild moose. This noble but ferocious animal has been protected in Maine for ten years or more.

The moose no longer leap for the tall timber when they find themselves in a populous area. Instead they charge the hapless people who cross their path. Citizens and tourists are contending that they are the ones who should be protected.

Some folks are already starting to call our national defense program a "victory program"—but military victories are not won by wishful thinking.

Congratulations to the amateur poets who write for the love of it—and use their own wastebaskets.

The greatest change in military service is diet. Join the army and learn what to eat.

TRUTH AND CONSEQUENCES

Typical Roosevelt Day Described

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The nation's capital probably is working overtime these days harder and longer than any other city in the United States, but Washington's No. 1 example of business as usual is President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

No two days at the White House are exactly alike, but the pattern is sufficiently set, so that a "typical day" can be described without exaggeration.

AWAKE with the squirrels on the White House lawn, the president starts work even before he has dressed or had breakfast. First off is his conference with his White House right-handers, the little group of men who help him work out the plans for the day and see that the schedule comes off without a hitch.

Ringleader of this little group is Stephen Early, who not only is eyes and ears for the president but is his liaison man with press and radio and through them with the whole world. While he is dressing and eating his usually hearty breakfast, the president lays his plans for the day, ticks off his appointments, and otherwise gets "his ducks in a straight line" for a stretch of work that may run from 10 to 16 hours.

Often present for these early morning sessions is the White House's star boarder, Harry Hopkins, who, as administrator of lend-lease and a member of the over-all National Defense Council, is the president's finger in just about all the important pies there are in Washington these days.

Off to his study in the White House proper or to the Oval room in the west wing which contains the executive offices, the president begins by nine his eternal round of conferences. Perhaps it starts with the Big Four of congress: Senators Barkley and Connally; Reps. Rayburn and McCormack, for a session on some vital piece of legislation.

THEN may come Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles to fill the president's ear with latest developments on the diplomatic front. After that, perhaps a diplomat or two, probably one from Central or South America, or the representatives of our neighbors to the south are finding now that the White House latch string is always out.

If the president has a speech in the offing, an almost certain luncheon guest is Judge Samuel "Sammy the Rose" Rosenmann, editor-in-chief of Roosevelt's public pronouncements as well as his state papers. But if it isn't the judge, it might be Secretary Morgenthau, to talk over taxes; or Admiral Harold R. Stark for a private report on what the navy is doing to combat submarine sinkings around Iceland.

Perhaps by 2 p. m., the president will have decks cleared for a little paper work, but even then he is not content to do just one thing at a time. As when recently, President Camacho of Mexico asked the president to sit for a portrait by Painter Armando Drechsler, which when finished will be presented to the United States. Roosevelt chose his paper work time for being a model.

If it's Friday and 4 p. m., the president will rock back in his chair, cock his long cigarette holder at its jauntiest and receive the press—an ordeal that may last anywhere from 20 to 45 minutes—and almost invariably begins with an exchange of quips with those newsmen and women nearest his desk and always ends with (often planted) to terminate the conference at the psychological moment) some reporter shouting "Thank you, Mr. President."

ANOTHER conference or two, perhaps a 30 minute dip in the White House pool, and then dinner. There are no formal, White House banquets these days and the little family dinners are frequent but more often there are guests, ranging from two to a dozen.

'Ersatz' Personalities

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

CHARMING—aren't they?—those brilliant, companionable people whom you find crowding around the cocktail bars these autumn nights. . . . sprawling around your own hearths as the lights begin to twinkle.

Such friendly folk! Easy to look upon. . . . warming to have about. Always saying and doing the Right Thing. . . . making you feel so confident. Sometimes, it's true, you find yourself envying them, wishing you could chatter as pleasantly about the opera, the newest football record. . . .

smarrest hair-do. . . . exciting divorce. Yet, even as you chew your jealous naps, you're smitten with shame. What an Old Meanie you've become. . . . thinking such hateful things about marvelous people! For they are marvelous, no one can deny that!

And you think of her delicious, amusing little gestures. That adorable way she has of tugging at her handkerchief when the ghastly European situation is mentioned. . . . her lovely lips trembling. . . . her glowing eyes welling, ever so glowily, with tears.

But of whom, you wonder, does that gesture remind you? Some other lovely lady hank-chuff tugging? Ethel Barrymore? Helen Hayes? Katharine Cornell? Rack your brains as you may, you can't remember. Funny—isn't it?—how they all seem to melt into one these days!

Or maybe it's a man. One of those clever, elusive males who manages, somehow, without the slightest seeming effort to arrest everyone's attention the minute he enters the room. Fascinated, you watch him as he quotes Noel Coward, discusses Wilkie. After which he casually tells you of the party he threw for Dorothy Lamour at Valhalla, or what the Duke of Windsor said when they met at Baltimore.

Amazing creatures, both of them. . . . they and all their kind! How abundant they make life seem by their presence. So colorful and dramatic! How easily they run the gamut of human emotion, from grief to gaiety, from wit to wistfulness! You study, enviously, the carefully careless waves of her burnished hair. . . . the lazy slouch of his London-tailored sporting jacket. If only you could wear life as delightfully as they wear their perfect grooming. . . . with exactly the right gesture and phrase. . . . then you, too, could be popular.

ular and exciting instead of a dreary dud. . . .

AND yet. . . . you frown. . . . bewildered and distracted. But why? You don't know! Even as you analyze them, you realize there is something wrong. But what? Actually, they are neither powerful nor potent—they just seem that way! "Smatter of fact, they leave you cold after their brief spell has passed! How can this be? How can they seem to live so little? . . . yet actually give so much? What's the trick?

The Germans know the trick. They've been practicing that trick for many a malnourished year. . . . years when they've lived on synthetic products of every kind. . . . "ersatz" theories of love and life. Excellent duplicates, they've seemed, of the Real Stuff. Yet Germany today is starving on such synthetic trash, shivering in rebellion with increasing bitterness, against its deadly deceit.

ERSATZ PRODUCTS. . . . ERSATZ PEOPLE. . . . ERSATZ PRINCIPLES. . . . PHONIES. ALL OF THEM! DO NOT TRUST THEM! DO NOT SHARE THEM! GO IN RAGS, IF YOU MUST. GO HOMELESS. . . . GO HUNGRY. . . . GO HURT AND HUNTED AND HARRIED. . . . BUT GO R-E-A-L! LET THE OTHERS HAVE THEIR SHALLOW VICIOUS, ERSATZ POWER. POPULARITY AND PHILLOSOPHY. BUT STICK TO THE TRUTH. LIVE THAT! TRUTH! BE HONEST! BE REAL! NO ERSATZ MAKE-BELIEVE FOR YOU!

Harriman Calls Stalin 'Great Guy', Praises Russia's Morale In War

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—No one ever would have suspected that Averell Harriman, son of the great railroad magnate and one of the wealthiest young men in the United States, ever would get on friendly terms with Josef Stalin, dictator of Communist Russia.

Harriman, a large shareholder in the Union Pacific and Illinois Central railroads, and Western Union, represents the acme of the capitalist system which Stalin has fought all his life. In addition, Harriman had a personal row with Soviet Russia several years ago during which he ejected him out of a valuable manganese concession.

But despite all this, Harriman's eyes almost glow today when he talks of Stalin. He calls him a "great guy," tells how tough and "foreseeing" he is, has unbounded confidence in Stalin's leadership, and is convinced Russia will hold out.

Harriman's friends smile a bit at this, wonder if Averell isn't too emotional, or they figure he was shown too much Russian hospitality and not enough grim reality at the front.

However, another man who came back glowing about Russia is William L. Batt, big Philadelphia manufacturer who makes SKF ball-bearings and is a director of various other big business enterprises. Batt can't say enough good about Russian morale and resistance in general.

It is true, of course, that most of the Harriman mission did not go around Russia very much. However, one man who did is General James Burns, a hard-boiled army officer, who went from Moscow south through the Caucasus, down through Iran, and back home via Egypt and Africa. Burns saw plenty and seems to be just as strong for the Russians as Harriman and Batt.

Russian Transportation.

ONE of the things which impressed him was the manner in which the Russians were saving their industrial materials in the face of the Nazi advance. Fleets of trucks, plus hundreds of railroad cars brought from the Trans-Siberian, were loaded up with machinery. Almost whole factories were transported from the line of advance to be set up behind the Ural Mountains. And after the cars and trucks were completely loaded, women and children perched atop the cargoes.

This evacuation of precious industrial materials is one reason for the tremendous number of trucks which the United States is sending the Russians now.

Contrary to most reports regarding the inefficiency of Russian transport, the American observers came back convinced that the Russians were doing an amazing job.

It was this enthusiasm which persuaded the president to stop planes, tanks, artillery actually en route to U. S. army camps and send them to Boston for transshipment to Archangel. Real fact is that although one billion in credits has been extended Russia, another billion will be extended shortly.

Note—Tragedy is that the Roosevelt administration marked time all summer, did not send the Harriman mission to Moscow until three months after Hitler invaded, and had gone a long way on the road to Moscow.

Wally's First Love.

BEFORE she became the Duchess of Windsor, Wally Simpson had a long row of broken hearts on her record. Almost every man she met fell in love with her, but there were very few she loved in return. (Some friends say this even included, at first the King of England.)

In fact, about the only man who never succumbed to Wally's charm was Felipe Espl, the present Argentine ambassador.

Espl is rated by the state department as the ablest diplomat in Washington. In addition he has charm, wit, and many ladies rate him as the handsomest man in the capital.

When Espl was a dashing young secretary of the Argentine embassy, he knew the then Wallis Simpson and knew her well. In fact Wallis was reported at the time to be in love with him.

The embassy office stands on a little side street, and Espl's office at that time looked out on the street. Beneath this window at times, the now Duchess of Windsor so often passed, exerting all her attraction to interest the dashing diplomat from the pampas—in vain. Espl had eyes only for the sweetheart of his early diplomatic days and eventually married her.—Courtney Lettis of Chicago, who now presides over the ladies of the diplomatic corps mission.

All this is history. Or at least it was until the Duke and Duchess came to town the other day. At that time Mrs. Espl Robert invited them to a tea and submitted in advance a list of the proposed guests. On the guest list were the names of the Argentine ambassador and Madame Espl.

But when the list was returned to Mrs. Robert those two names had been scratched off.

The Duchess of Windsor had had her revenge.

Capital Chaff.

CAPTAIN JULES JAMES, commandant of the U. S. naval base at Bermuda, is a nephew of Secretary of War Stimson. White House has received a barrage of letters and telegrams urging Maury Maverick as ambassador to Mexico. . . . Madame Maxim Litvinov was born Ivy Low, daughter of British historian Sidney Low, and niece of Sir A. Maurel Low, who was Washington correspondent of London's Morning Post. . . . Carlos Davila, one-time president of Chile and ambassador to Washington, has been appointed adviser to Chile's Development Commission. New York office. Senator Pepper has received a complaint that a camp in Virginia, which has a maximum of 20,000 men, has received enough toilet paper to last 100,000 soldiers for 50 years. . . . In the first two years of war, the United Kingdom spent, for all purposes, 7 billion pounds, of which 5.6 billions went for war. . . . When war began, Germany's public debt was 37 billion marks. Now it is 101 billion. . . . Of the total lend-lease supplies actually delivered to Britain, more than one-half is food.

Oppose Food Plan.

SENATOR John A. Danaher, a peppy Connecticut Republican isolationist, is a strong advocate of the Hoover plan of sending food to Nazi-occupied Europe. Recently a constituent, whose husband's relatives live in the conquered Lowlands, called on Danaher and protested his stand. She told of receiving a smuggled, uncensored letter from her relatives recounting their bitter hardships but pleading that nothing be done that in any way would help the Nazis.

A Farmer's Diary

An Evening Walk

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THIS evening after our simple meal of steaming mush and milk, I walked out on an errand north across the woods. The air was keen with frost and the stars twinkled coldly from the clear night. Froze vapor glistened darkly on the grass. When I came to the bars on an old-time trail and placed my hands on the topmost rail, they slid easily down to the troughlike center and my palms were cold with fine ice crystals. Although they stung, the effect was exhilarating. I felt a delightful strength and vigor.

I stopped in a little cove where red leaves of brambles were scarcely visible. Tall stems of goldenrod were leafless and stood motionless at attention. Sparse curled blades of poverty grass were stiff and rattled beneath my feet. The bold bulb thistle with seed pods towering above my head, was brown and its spiny branches were torn and ragged from the wind. Small swells of autumn leaves were banked against the eastern side.

Far down, a timid rabbit broke the silence as he scampered deep into hazel thicket. A curious gray squirrel scented my presence and came out high on a red oak to scold me furiously. . . . something that rarely happens so late in the evening. A song sparrow trilled not 30 feet from where I stood.

A faint, weird fragrance of woody earth came up from among the silent trees—like the last sweet odor that flows from closing flowers. . . .

When I returned to the crest of the slope above our house, the large red moon was creeping above the hills, benign and silent.

Its light reflected from frozen drops of dew. The eastern side of our neighbor's house and barn roof glistened with frosty whiteness. The entire valley seemed asleep. Woodland, stream and field. No lights beamed out—all the farmers had gone to rest. Blue smoke above the chimney, straight above the firmly built chimneys. I hesitated before setting foot upon the threshold of my own door, and remembered with thankful heart, that my own cottage is only one of many. Perhaps five million other rural homes enjoy similar rest and peace—forty million other farmers have a share of such common things as moon and frost and mush and milk and a ramble over woodland trails at night.

MAYO RESEARCH GAUGES FLIERS

Students Ability To Fly Plane Determined By 'Aviation Medicine.'

(By United Press) ROCHESTER, Minn.—An aspirant's ability to pilot a plane will be determined before he leaves the ground—if studies now being undertaken by the Mayo Foundation for Medical Research prove successful.

Ten Mayo specialists in vision, hearing and other fields are making first hand observations of student pilots—and are even taking the Civil Aeronautics Board flight course to follow their "laboratories" step by step.

The research, being undertaken free by the clinic, was requested by the C.A.B. to develop more accurate measuring sticks of the relative ability of a prospective pilot. The physicians make their observations and medical predictions and then by accompanying the student in the air, record the results of their forecasts.

The studies are being undertaken with the co-operation of the Northwest Air lines, with whom Mayos are engaged in another study of aviation medicine—development of air ambulances.

Authorities have pointed out that one of the most serious problems arising in the European war has been that of transporting wounded soldiers from areas isolated from all land transportation by enemy airplanes.

Large fleets of air ambulances may provide the answer to the problem, it is believed, and airlines stewardesses, all registered nurses, are keeping pulse and respiration records of special passengers to determine feasibility of such equipment.

Other studies are being carried on in the pressure tank at the Mayo clinic laboratory. Preliminary reports indicate that air-borne invalids are able to achieve more complete relaxation—important factor in the welfare of wounded persons—than is possible in other methods of transportation.

Baby Who Has 'Died' Twice Amazes Doctors

SAN FRANCISCO—GNS—Doctors are amazed at the dramatic story of the fight for life of a 36-ounce baby who has twice "died" and has been brought back to life.

The baby weighed two pounds four ounces and was just a shade over twelve inches tall at birth. He was two and a half months premature, and at birth there was little hope he would live.

Physicians, however, were ready with a combination incubator-respirator. The baby, whose mother had never seen him, went into it and has been there ever since.

The incubator provided needed warmth, the respirator kept breathing going. Twice since birth, however, breathing has stopped. The baby was revived by massage in the heart region and injection of hormones. Water and salt also is administered, and a sixth of an ounce of milk at a time through a tube.

He will have to stay in his iron lunglet until he is at least two months old and becomes capable of breathing normally.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 million of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with a burning or stinging sensation are signs that something is wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pain, leg pains, loss of appetite and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Dean's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Dean's Pills.

Chicago Airport Can Handle 100 Planes An Hour

CHICAGO—(AP)—The 622 acres making up the Municipal Airport in Chicago will answer the Windy City's airport needs for 20 years, John A. Casey, Municipal Airport Superintendent, said today.

He explained that the recently enlarged runways can handle "a terrific volume of traffic ranging from the smallest Cub plane to the new 82 ton bomber."

He said:

"We could handle 100 planes an hour coming in from a single air line or a slightly smaller number if the planes were from different lines. The field can also accommodate the landing of an Army Pursuit plane every nine seconds on each of two runways."

The field's nine runways total 10 miles in length. Eight of them average 5,600 feet and are being widened to 134 feet. The ninth, a record breaker on commercial air fields, will be 7,226 feet long.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with a burning or stinging sensation, sometimes with a little blood, are sometimes signs that there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Chicago Airport Can Handle 100 Planes An Hour

CHICAGO—(U.S.)—The 622 acres making up the Municipal Airport in Chicago will answer the Windy City's airport needs for 20 years, John A. Casey, Municipal Airport Superintendent, said today.

He explained that the recently enlarged runways can handle "a terrific volume of traffic ranging from the smallest Cub plane to the new 82 ton bomber."

He said:

"We could handle 100 planes an hour coming in from a single air line or a slightly smaller number if the planes were from different lines. The field can also accommodate the landing of an Army Pursuit plane every nine seconds on each of two runways."

The field's nine runways total 10 miles in length. Eight of them average 5,600 feet and are being widened to 184 feet. The ninth, a record breaker on commercial air fields, will be 7,226 feet long.

Recipe for washing WORK CLOTHES

CLIMALENE LOOSENS STUBBORN GREASE

Follow this "sure-fire" recipe. Here's an easy way to wash work clothing—recommended by many home economists.

1. Soak overnight in Climalene bath to loosen heavy grease (2 tablespoons to tub).
2. Wring, wash in usual way — sprinkling 2 tablespoons Climalene in water before adding ½ usual amount of soap.
3. ½ tablespoon Climalene in first rinse aids thorough rinsing.

Climalene loosens the grease to which grime and dirt cling. Work clothes wash clean and soft again. Use Climalene for all the family wash, too. See directions on package.

"Pitfalls of Love"
(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

HARRY UNDERWOOD took his wife's hand from his arm and imprisoned it in his own strong fingers.

"I must go, Sweet," he said. "You should know that."

"Why?" She fairly flung the question at him.

"To see that there is no door or window unlocked in the house or basement."

"You won't find a single one unfastened," Miss Whitlock said quietly. "As soon as it was safe to leave Mrs. Underwood this morning, I went all through the house and basement, saw that all windows and doors were locked and that the night chains were on."

"Good work!" Harry Underwood said commendingly. "Then I won't need to go downstairs at all. But I must go over to my own suite on this floor. I won't be long."

Comprehension came into Lillian's eyes.

"Yes, I suppose you'll have to go over there," she said. "Mayn't I go with you?"

His eyes mirrored pity, but his "No" was adamant.

"You know why," he said. "More than half of my time would be given to you, and time is pressing."

"I know it," she agreed. "You'll have to go. But please hurry back."

He kissed her again, and with a parting assurance. "I won't be long," he left.

When he heard the sound of his own door closing, Lillian said: "Dear girl, would you mind if I went over with Harry?"

Madge Leaves Her

Under any other conditions I knew her answer would have been a generous and imperative negative. But the ordeal of Marion's disappearance, and the prospect of Harry's going dangerously in search of her, had sapped both her resistance and her will power. Yet I was not surprised to hear her say:

"Oh, if you only would!"

"Are you sure?" Miss Whitlock protested, but I shook my head at her and, going swiftly to the door I spoke to her.

"Please lock this after me," I said. "When I come back, I will give this key to you. And I gave it for her, three short staccato raps and two longer ones. She nodded comprehensively."

I heard her lock the door behind me, then sped noiselessly down the hall, until I came to the door of

Mixed In Your Kitchen

No Trouble. No Cooking. Saves Big Dollars.

Yes, ma'am, right in your own kitchen, you can easily mix a cough medicine that is a wonder for quick results, and gives you about four times as much for your money. And it's no trouble—a child could do it. You'll need a syrup. Make it by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed.

Now get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any drugist, and pour it into a pint bottle. Then add your syrup. There you have a full pint of really remarkable medicine for coughs due to colds. It lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

And does it do the work! You'll say it beats anything you ever tried. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if it not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Women of Moose
Make Plans for Chapter Night

Women of the Moose held their regular business meeting Wednesday evening at the Moose Home with Miss Ruth Roesch, senior regent, presiding. During the business session reports were given by Mrs. Annie Lowman, recorder, Mrs. Alice Mast, war relief chairman, Mrs. Gaynelle Roth, membership, Miss Loretta Zellers, hospital guild, Mrs. Evelyn Harmon, social service, and Mrs. Mildred Burdette, home-making chairman.

Plans were made to hold a special meeting Nov. 19 at the Moose Home. Members will motor to Galion on Nov. 30 for a party in honor of the local committee chairman. Sixty-two members attended the session last evening. Library committee members will hold their chapter night meeting Nov. 26 at the Moose home. This session will be open to the public.

REGULAR MEETING.

Boogie Woogie club members held a meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Clara Heydinger, 196 Waring avenue. Five hundred was played and prizes won by Mrs. Leo Harrington and Miss Nelly Gitnic, the guest in attendance. Luncheon was served at small tables decorated with Thanksgiving appointments. The time and place for the next meeting will be announced later.

Harry's suite. There I halted, for it was no part of my plan to let him know I had followed him.

What he was planning to do in his own rooms I had no idea, but if he were correct in fearing that members of the gang holding Marion in captivity were now planning to effect an entrance to the house, I would be of far more use in the corridor, where my ears could detect any unusual noise anywhere in the establishment, than I would be inside either Lillian's quarters or Harry's.

My query as to what he was doing was soon answered. From inside the room came Harry's voice, resonant, yet with a certain mechanical nuance in it, repeating letters and figures ending in the word "calling."

Summons Help by Radio.

And then, less distinct but still understandable, another voice sounded in the room, answering with another set of letters and figures, and realization broke upon me.

He had a secret radio set in his room, one that enabled him to communicate with the one in my father's hideaway in Greenwich Village, and this rendered him in-

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE
By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HELP HIM OUT

Many a No Trump hand will produce eight tricks if the declarer has to depend on his own resources, but presents no earthly chance to take the ninth one needed for game unless he can get a bit of help from the defenders. It is up to him, of course, to keep trying to make them lead the suit, or suits, which will build that other trick for him. But it is equally incumbent on them to keep their eyes open and refuse to do it.

At another table, the club 5 was led to the K and A, then the heart K and A. If West had now led a spade, the contract would have been made, but he refused thus to aid. He sent back his club 10 to the J and Q. East now saw his own suit hopeless for further results, so led the spade J to the Q and K. West now led his spade 10. The declarer ducked in the dummy, hoping desperately West would lead a third spade from the 9-6 into the A-7, but this West had seen the 8 from North, so switched to his diamond 2 to the Q. That declarer could find only eight tricks which he could take, since he had no help with the spades, so he went down one, losing a club to East at the end.

Tomorrow's Problem.

Rather funny bidding, that, but something akin to it developed at several tables in a duplicate, North becoming a No Trump game declarer. In one case he got enough help to make his contract. East led the spade J to the Q and K, and the spade 10 came back. The declarer played the 3 from dummy, letting the 10 win, and West then led his spade 9. The A won that, and the 7 was now set up, producing a second trick in the suit. West had not noticed North play the 8 on the second spade trick, and thought his partner had it.

After that it was easy for North to get three more tricks in hearts, two in diamonds and two in clubs, so that he made his contract.

dependent of what might otherwise have been a major tragedy—the cutting of the telephone.

"Get the chief quickly." These were the first words Harry spoke after he was sure radio connection was established. A few seconds later he spoke again in low, controlled accents, which yet spelled imperative need for action, to my listening father.

"Phone dead here," he said. "Not sure, but think it is cut."

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Nov. 14,
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

ALTHOUGH there is portent of certain mixed and conflicting circumstances, yet the day may be memorable for the materialization of a long enduring benefit either in the nature of assured security, a stabilization of the fortunes or in the removal of an old stagnant or congested state of affairs. This may be definitely removed to make room for fine progress, probably coming as a reward for hard work.

Those whose birthday it is, although encountering some moment of annoyance and perhaps adversity, yet may expect a year memorable for the coming to a climax of some substantial rewards or recognition for past performances of soundness and merit. An old static condition may be dissipated, frozen assets may come to life, or old values in real investments may be enhanced. But be calm and moderate in all relations.

A child born on this day should have many sterling qualities with sound and constructive talents, which will win for it success and security against adverse and annoying situations or opposition.

'Priorities' In Transportation Called Vital Need

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—"Priorities" in transportation must be established if the railroads of America are to meet the needs of national defense, Frederick Ely Williamson, president of the New York Central Railroad, declared here. During World War I, Williamson served as department general agent of Railroad Administration at Governor's Island, New York.

A sharp cut must be made in civilian passenger traffic, Williamson said, "if we are to make the greatest defense effort in our history effective. Thus far, there has been no hitch in the East, which is used to handling large volumes of rail traffic, but in some of the Southern states, and elsewhere in the nation, there have been minor bottlenecks . . . and there will be greater ones unless some sort of curtailment program is started."

Williamson mentioned that Germany has shut off everything but military traffic on her railroads, but he said he doubted that the government will take over U. S. roads in this war, as it did in 1917, "unless we stub our toes on the present defense demands."

GEN. JOHNSON: State Papers Found Beside Plane Wreck

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON
WASHINGTON — Here are some figures sent me by a fan for the edification of those who believe, or at least say, that you can put a ceiling over prices to keep them from rising in a run-away inflation and yet leave rises in wages and salaries unchecked.

I have been unable to check these figures, but both from their source and what I know otherwise, I believe they are approximately correct.

Of course, there are a dozen different ways of dividing up the costs of things but, neglecting too much technicality, it has always seemed to me obvious that considering all the elements that go into them, from the time they are raw material or seeds or what-not until the time they are consumed, nearly their whole cost is that of human effort of some sort in rough processing, finishing, packing and distribution.

If this is so, to say that you can control prices and not control wages is as crazy as to say that you can destroy the population of the United States but not its people. Its population is its people, just as prices are, or nearly all, wages, writes my friend.

"Now, so far as profits are concerned, if you will refer to the Business Week issue of Nov. 2, 1940 page 64, you will find figures taken from the governmental reports showing that from 1926 to 1937, inclusive, the capital that reported income to the government received, after paying taxes, a yearly income that amounted to only 1.7 per cent on its investment, and which averaged only 3.65 per cent of the total national income when estimated at 65 billion dollars a year.

"Furthermore, this was the net profit after taxes, but it was not the profit before bankruptcies, and if all of the capital lost in this period had been deducted there would probably have been very little left in the way of profit. In fact, the return as it was, was far less than would have been received on an investment in government bonds during the period. Even in 1926 about five billion dollars of capital went broke.

"Since the receivers of rents and royalties get them from these sources a very small percentage of the national income, you can say that the wages and salaries actually received in the average around 95 per cent of the national income, and any gink who thinks that prices can be held down while wages and salaries are going up ought to have his brain examined by an alienist—whether it is man or woman who thinks it.

"Furthermore, we hear people talk about capital profiteering in the last war. If you will look back at the figures for 1918 you will find that capital received a smaller percentage of the national income in 1918 than in most of the years before the war.

"In 1918, the profits of capital, even before paying enormous taxes on profits called for that year, were 20 per cent less than the average return of the preceding nine years, and after paying the taxes the return to capital was probably the least in history. On the other hand, labor, in 1918, received its highest percentage of the national income, much higher than in the years 1909 to 1918 inclusive, and labor paid no income taxes therefrom, so to speak. Who, then, were the profiteers in 1918?

"Mr. Roosevelt in his speech the other night, x x x said that some business men thought that we ought to carry on business as usual, and this was all wrong. Mr. Roosevelt expects business to make a tremendous sacrifice and to let labor go its own inflationary way."

Here my correspondent waxes a little too hot in his indignation even for this column. But on his main point he is perfectly correct. It is perfectly absurd not to include labor under the wage ceiling.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Give Me The Music Makers.

(Barrel-house, Boogie-woogie, and the Blues)

Of course the most fascinating business with which Broadway is intimately connected is the theatre, but the band business comes second.

For the fabulous fellows who float into Lindy's or the Cub room at 2 a. m. to forget about tunes and trombones and often heroes to the nation—far more famous in Idaho and Wyoming than Gertrude Lawrence, much more important to South Dakota and Texas than Katharine Cornell, more dazzling to Colorado than Clifton Webb.

Because Gertrude and Clifton and Miss Cornell are not in the juke boxes of the nation, and the music makers are. They are in the juke boxes and on the bandstands and in the armories and in the opera houses and in the loudspeakers of America. But especially the juke boxes, and that perhaps tells the story. Anything you can buy for a nickel is bought by a lot of people.

Most people don't know much about the band business except that Guy Lombardo is sweet and Benny Goodman is hot. But music is a big-time industry in the U. S. A., with headquarters on Broadway. Most of its top flight exponents make far more money than the biggest theatrical stars ever hope to earn.

Kay Kyser, Eddy Duchin and Meyer Davis are the wealthiest of the orchestra leaders. Kyser gets four musical incomes—one from radio, one from theaters, one from phonograph records, one from the movies. For the past three years he has averaged over a million dollars annually. His personal appearances in theaters are made on a $15,000-plus-percentage basis weekly, and he has received as high as $26,000 for a single week. That's more than Helen Hayes and Katharine Hepburn and Margaret Sullivan together ever made in a month, the poor girls.

Eddy Duchin has been a constant worker for the last decade at top prices, and doesn't know the meaning of the term "layoff." It's safe to say he's made more moolah than Maurice Chevalier. Meyer Davis, the "millionaire bandleader," conducts his orchestra at society functions and receives fabulous sums—from $5,000 to $10,000 for one night's work. He owns a string of bands, and he has the faculty of making the money they earn work for him all over again; he's invested successfully in bowling alleys, amusement parks and night clubs.

Glen Miller's one-nighters have made history in the band business with their enormous grosses, of which he always gets a healthy percentage. Oh, he does much better than Alfred Lunt.

The top record-seller among the band leaders is Jimmy Dorsey, who is at the top of the list chiefly because (according to the Brill Building experts) he has a genius for picking great tunes to wax. But the Andrews Sisters and Bing Crosby exceed even the Dorsey sales with their discs of vocals.

More than 2,000,000 phonograph records will have been sold by the end of the year 1941, with Jimmy Dorsey, Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, Horace Heidt, Xavier Cugat and Sammy Kaye leading the field. In spite of the current thumbe-craze, only Xavier Cugat is in the big money class among those who dispense Latin-American rhythms. His personal yearly earnings are over $300,000.

TEN ELEPHANTS CALLED VICTIMS OF POISONER

Detective Makes Charge as 6 More Circus Animals Are Stricken.

(By International News Service)
AUGUSTA, Ga.—Edward Mullin, a private detective investigating the deaths of ten elephants of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus herd in Atlanta last week, charged today that the deaths of the animals was a clear case of mass poisoning.

Mullin's charge came shortly after six more elephants were stricken, and the detective predicted that an arrest would be made shortly. He did not further explain his statement.

Other investigators declared Mullin's charge that the elephants had been poisoned deliberately seemed to be substantiated by the reports of Dr. C. Reynolds Clark, state chemist, and Dr. T. B. Clower, chief veterinarian in the Georgia department of agriculture.

Both doctors made chemical analyses of the vital organs of some of the elephants in Atlanta and indicated that large doses of arsenic found in the stomachs of the animals had been eaten only three or four hours before they became ill.

This evidence would tend to show the elephants obtained the poison within an hour or so after their arrival in Atlanta, weakening an original theory they had been poisoned accidentally when they grazed on the site of a former chemical plant en route to the city from Greenville, S. C.

There was no immediate indication how the elephants which became ill late yesterday might have been poisoned.

Value of the elephants lost in Atlanta was estimated by circus officials at $100,000. The circus has a herd of more than 40 elephants in all.

NEW PRESIDENT

Cincinnati Dentist Succeeds Dr. Wolford of Mansfield.

Dr. W. H. Wolford, Mansfield, who has headed the Ohio State Dental society for the past year, relinquished the office today to Dr. Edward L. Ball of Cincinnati, the society's new president.

Officers of the society were elected yesterday at the dentists' annual meeting in Columbus. Dr. Thomas J. McDermott, Cleveland, was chosen president-elect and will automatically become president next year. Other officers include Dr. C. H. Hebble, Columbus, vice president; Dr. Edward C. Mills, Columbus, re-elected secretary, and Dr. Earl G. Jones, Columbus, re-named treasurer.

At the close of their 76th annual meeting, the dentists were told that a state-wide dental rehabilitation program among select service registrants will be launched "as soon as Washington gives the word." Under the proposed program, registrants can be treated by dentists of their own choice at government expense.

PEER PAROLE SEEN LIKELY

Board Member Says Man Sherwood Freed 'Too Soon' Has Good Chance.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — William Peer, Lorain county real estate operator serving one to 10 years in Ohio penitentiary for bribery, stands "a good chance" of obtaining a parole "if he comes clean with the truth" when he appears before the state pardon and parole commission today or tomorrow.

Peer, whose Oct. 11 parole was revoked by the commission because he was released prematurely from London prison farm by State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood, will appear before the three-member commission to plead his case at a regular commission hearing.

"I believe there's a good chance Peer will get his parole if he comes clean with the truth and tells the whole story behind his actions and his pre-mature release," E. E. Everett, member of the commission, said. "We know the facts in the case but we want to hear them from him."

Everett said that so far as he knew Peer had been a "good prisoner" and that consequently he was entitled to parole.

Peer was returned recently to Ohio penitentiary when it was disclosed that Sherwood had released the prisoner from London farm 26 days before his parole was effective. Sherwood claimed that Peer was ill and needed medical attention but the pardon and parole commission found that Peer had never visited a physician during the time he was free.

Surviving are his widow, Lydia A.; his son, Attorney Biddle; a grandson; and three brothers, Charles W. of Wooster, Jacob of Massillon and Daniel of Canal Fulton.

P. R. BLUNK DIES

Brief Illness Ends In Death of Mansfield Man.

P. Raymond Blunk, 45, died early today at his home, 355 West Fifth street, after a brief illness.

Born at Lima, he came to Mansfield about 16 years ago, and was employed by the Tappan Stove company.

In addition to his widow, Florence, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blunk of Canton; two brothers, Stanley of Canton, and Eugene of Mansfield. He is also survived by a stepson, Raymond Sorick, now in the U. S. navy.

The body was removed to the Finckoff funeral home, pending funeral arrangements.

Laff-a-Day

"Junior, stop kicking Mrs. Smith's furniture. You have on your new shoes!"

Richland county's blind people were one up on the rest of the county today as far as Thanksgiving dinner was concerned. The group of 22 that participates in the weekly recreational period at the Salvation Army were served a Thanksgiving chicken dinner instead of the regular noon day luncheon and participated in a holiday program during the afternoon. The feast at the Salvation Army was served today inasmuch as the group will want to spend next Thursday, Thanksgiving, with their families.

The central switchboard at Municipal building has started "acting up" again with the result that the city engineer has been answering calls for the municipal court, the waterworks employees for the street department, and the fire department for the city auditor. Miss Betty Mae Thompson, switchboard operator, sent a "help" call to the Mansfield Telephone company today after a series of misdirected calls. Because the lights on the switchboard do not light up when calls are completed, calls for other departments have been routing themselves along the wrong lines.

Mrs. Samuel F. Smith, Jr., 742 West Third street, has sent congratulations to her brother, Mayor John Q. Carey of Toledo, who was re-elected last week. Mayor Carey, who is only 36, held his first political office in 1932 as state representative. He was re-elected, but resigned to become a successful candidate for a council manager in Toledo under the city plan. He was vice mayor two years ago by council. Mrs. Smith, native of Toledo, is the wife of the assistant manager of the Social Security office in Mansfield.

Stopping here for an hour yesterday while en route to Columbus for the opening of a new branch store today, J. C. Penney, chairman of the board of the J. C. Penney company, visited for a short time with Ray M. Calene, local manager, and took a quick turn over to city hall to see Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton. The latter had been one of J. C. Penney's "1,000 partners" at one time and formerly managed the Mansfield store. The visiting executive had been in Ellettsville for the week-end visiting his nephew, manager of the store there.

Transfer of Ohio Troops From Camp Shelby Rumored

Unconfirmed reports circulated today among soldiers of the 37th division that the outfit will be transferred soon to another army base.

The rumors were prompted by a reported visit of Major General Robert S. Beightler, 37th commander, with General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, in Washington.

Beightler was said to have flown to Washington last night after issuing oral instructions that no furloughs or leaves of absence were to be granted to 37th division men or officers until further notice.

Authoritative sources confirmed the temporary suspension of leaves and furloughs.

It has been rumored here for several weeks that the division might be stationed at a more important base because of its fine showing in the Louisiana war games in September. The division, with the Ohio National Guard as a nucleus, has been based at Camp Shelby since shortly after the guard was called into federal service in October.

SHE STILL WINS

GENERAL TRIED TO SAVE DATA BEFORE CRASH

Youths Describe Fall of French Aircraft; Dentz Slated For Post.

(By Associated Press)
LE VIGAN, Unoccupied France — A briefcase containing papers General Charles Huntziger was bringing back from North Africa was found intact today beside the wreckage of the plane in which he and several others were killed yesterday.

The papers apparently were thrown out by General Huntziger, minister of war in the Vichy government and commander of the French army, in an effort to save them.

Youths from a French camp said they saw the plane go into a tail spin in a snowstorm before it disappeared behind the trees.

Immediately afterward, the boys heard a violent explosion followed by another so strong that they could feel a rush of air.

Rescue squads extricated the burned bodies from the wreckage. The plane apparently was weighed down by ice after an abrupt temperature drop and a sudden shift in the wind.

In Vichy, Marshal Petain cancelled all appointments and flags were flown at half-staff.

Syria Defender Set To Be War Minister

VICHY — (UP) — Gen. Henri Fernand Dentz whose defense of Syria against British attack won him high regard in Berlin, was expected today to enter the government of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, as war minister, succeeding the late Gen. Charles Huntziger.

There was a possibility that the post would be filled temporarily by Admiral Francois Darlan, vice-premier, but Dentz was the leading candidate for permanent successor.

The cabinet post is of utmost importance in the delicate balance of relations between France and Germany, particularly because of the responsibilities of the war minister in the defense of France's colonial empire.

Steinhardt Plane Still Unreported

NEW YORK — (INS) — "There is still no news of the plane" in which Maxim Litvinov and Lawrence A. Steinhardt are flying from Kuibyshev to Egypt, the British radio reported today in a broadcast heard in New York by CBS.

ORDER PART OF ROAD VACATED

A section of County Line Road No. 23 between Richland and Knox counties was vacated yesterday by commissioners of the two counties at a joint session in Mansfield. C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the Richland county board, said no property owners in the area formerly served by the road appeared to protest the action. Only slightly more than a mile of road was involved. The section of road, which has not been used in recent years, will revert to property owners in the area.

Warn Drivers: Anti-Freeze Is Limited

Defense demands will limit the civilian supply of anti-freeze solution for motorists this winter, but common caution and conservation should prevent motors from freezing up.

This was the consensus of Cleveland anti-freeze suppliers today as cold weather approached.

One jobber said that from 15 to 20 per cent of the Cleveland motor-going public faced the possibility of going without anti-freeze. He said motorists who do not have anti-freeze should be careful to drain water from their automobile radiators on cold nights.

One anti-freeze product advanced from $1 to $1.50 a gallon, but the price of two others remained at last year's levels. Denatured alcohol which sold at 35 cents a gallon last year is up to 89 cents.

Surpassing their quota of 100 new memberships by 12 this year, campaign workers were told at a report meeting that although they were 37 memberships short of their renewal goal of 300, with 263 renewal memberships turned in to date, they could achieve their renewal goal and close the campaign by Friday.

EXPERTS RECOMMEND SUPER SUDS

- Here's How to Wash Rayons, Silks and Wool
1. Test patch in water for color-fastness. If color runs, it's not washable. (Test waters in soapy water.)
 2. Wash garments separately, by hand.
 3. Use lukewarm suds: Dissolve Super Suds completely in warm water, add cold for lukewarm suds.
 4. Do not soak. Wash quickly, gently. Don't rub, wring or twist. Woolsens think from rubbing—avoid any excessive handling while wet.
 5. Rinse thoroughly, gently, in clean, lukewarm water. Roll in towel; don't leave them. Never dry woolsens in excessive heat or direct sun.
 6. Shape garment over board before ironing. Use a moderate iron.
 7. Certain type weaves and prints should not be washed. Look for washability guarantee when you buy.

LESS STEEL IN FRAMS
LONDON—(AP)—Britain is to have new war-time frams containing less steel. They will be standard frams—following standard requirements — except that they may differ in design and color. No new pram must contain more than 14 pounds of metal, no push-car more than 7 pounds. Before the war the average pram contained 28 pounds of steel.

SHARP GAIN IN RURAL POWER CONSUMERS SHOWN SINCE 1939

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON—A survey, just released by the Rural Electrification Administration, indicated that the agency has almost tripled the number of rural power consumers since 1939. REA-financed lines have increased from 115,000 miles in July, 1939 to 310,000 miles in July, 1940, the survey disclosed.

With the extension of power facilities in rural areas the study reported a corresponding increase in use of electrical appliances on the nation's farms. Most popular of the 10 major appliances listed by REA for the first six months of 1941 was the radio, now being used on 89 per cent of the farms served by 120 REA systems in 33 states.

Popularity of the other appliances was listed as follows: hand iron, used on 85 per cent of the farms; washing machines, 55 per cent; refrigerator, 42 per cent; vacuum cleaner, 21 per cent; electric water pump, 18 per cent; utility motor, 17 per cent; hot plate, 15 per cent; poultry lighting, 10 per cent; and cream separator, 8 per cent.

The REA said the figures indicate that California has installed more appliances as a whole than any other state. However, North Dakota leads in ownership of ranges, Ohio in vacuum cleaners, and Minnesota in washing machines. Kansas leads in electric brooders, Delaware in milk coolers and North Dakota in large motors.

In surveying the program, REA administrator Harry Slatery said: "The rapid increase in use of farm appliances will mean that American farmers can meet the demands of the Food-for-Defense program with less man-power.

"Farmers who have water pumps no longer need to spend time pumping and carrying water to livestock and poultry, as they once did. Electrical refrigeration saves marketable foodstuffs that would otherwise spoil; poultry lighting increases egg production per hen; electric brooders raise more chicks from a given number of eggs; and small motors release the farmer from hand power jobs and give him time for additional productive effort," he concluded.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

WHALING FLEET GOES OUT SOON IN FULL FORCE Bigger School Reported In Queen Charlotte Island Waters.

VICTORIA, B. C.—(AP)—School is open, and from advance reports the attendance is much better than it has been for several years. The school is the school of whales at the southern tip of the Queen Charlotte Islands, off the coast of British Columbia.

Whaling men may drift to softer billets between seasons—but few of them can resist the call when the fleet prepares to sail again. Some of the oldest among them resent modern changes which have taken much of the hazard out of whaling, but the first call for whalers brings them back just the same.

It was good news for whaling men that all six ships of the Victoria fleet would go north this year. Last year, only three of the ships were worked. The Victoria boats should get an increased haul this year, and American ships that usually engage in the annual hunt will not put to sea.

After an enforced lay-off, many veterans will return to the trade they love when the six ships—the mother, S. S. William Grant, and the brood, White, Blue, Black, Green and Brown—point their bows northward.

To these men, the cry "Thar she blows" from the lookout man in the crow's nest is the sweetest music in the world. It whips the little party of seamen into activity with greater effect than the king of swine at a jiggerbug's convention.

"Thar she blows" brings tension to the 10 or 12 men aboard the little 200-foot boats. To the green hand it is an eventful first experience. To the old hands it's always a thrill—even though they miss the harpooning from a rowboat of the old days.

The modern method is to fire the harpoon from a gun. The whalers of the Victoria fleet are expert marksmen. Lately many of them have been speculating on what would happen if they sighted a U-boat. The general consensus is that they could harpoon it easily. The U-boat certainly would not put up such a fight as a 60-foot sperm whale or an even larger hammerhead. Sperm whales fight like a battling salmon, and the hammerhead can charge a boat like a battering ram.

When a whale has been subdued, it is towed to the side of the boat and pumped to bloated proportions with compressed air, so it cannot sink. A pole, similar to a surveyor's pole with the flag of the ship that caught the whale is stuck into the carcass, and the whaling ship leaves it drifting.

A whaler tender spots the kill and takes it to the whaler at Rose Harbor, in the Queen Charlotte Islands. There, the whale oil is extracted, the whale cut up and packed to Victoria. Virtually every part of the whale is used.

Whaling business has been slack the past few seasons, partly because the school of whales seemed to be playing hooky for a time, and partly because the price of whale oil went down.

Whale oil is not yet up to the prices whalers recall during the World War, when it went as high as $60 a barrel. Now, it runs around $14 or $15, but may go higher. It is useful in making margarine, so valuable in Britain today as a substitute for butter.

Famed Atlantic Flyer Sets New Aviation Record

LONDON—(AP)—Jim Mollison, 36-year-old Atlantic record flyer and now war-time ferry pilot, is again in the news. He has made a new record by piloting a "Flying Wing" more than 4,000 miles to the Far East.

The plane was needed by the Free French, and Mollison volunteered to fly it alone across the Mediterranean, despite the risk of meeting armed German or Italian machines.

For many months Jim had been delivering Spitfires and other planes from the factories to the maintenance depots. He was getting a bit tired of this and wanted something more exciting. When he heard that volunteers were wanted to take the "Flying Wing" to the Middle East, he went after the job.

The "Flying Wing" has two booms instead of a box to hold the tail. Thirty-five troops can be carried in its central section.

Civilian Owners Donate Yachts to U. S. Coast Guard

DETROIT—(AP)—Reminiscent of the small craft that bobbed in the pages of history during the British evacuation of Dunkerque, 23 private American yachts have been in the Detroit river today flew the insignia of the U. S. Coast Guard auxiliary.

The civilian owners, members of exclusive Grosse Pointe yacht clubs, have been alternating for the past several months at donating their vessels to the Coast Guard for 24-hour periods to maintain a daily patrol of the Detroit river.

Recently 18 of the owners boarded a U. S. Coast Guard cutter for a four-day training cruise into Lake Huron—the group's first voyage of such length since the auxiliary was organized two years ago by an act of Congress.

Lieut. H. A. Meyer, who commands the auxiliary Detroit base, pointed out that these men differ from those in reserve branches of U. S. armed forces in that they still maintain their civilian status.

ENGLISH GIRLS HEAVIER LONDON—(AP)—Girls today are 10 pounds heavier, one inch taller than the girls of 1916. Young men are 16 pounds heavier, 1½ inches taller than their fathers 25 years ago were.

HEADS FARM BUREAU AGAIN

L. L. Rinehart Re-elected To Presidency; Reports Show Gain In Business.

L. L. Rinehart of Sandusky township today had been re-elected president of the Richland County Farm Bureau.

Also re-elected at the bureau's annual meeting in the First Methodist church were C. R. Mengert, Monroe township, vice president; Mary Gramly, Weller township, secretary; and Mrs. W. C. Boggs, Millin township, and Mrs. Clarence Gribling, Troy township, ladies directors.

Reports read at the meeting showed that during the past 10 months the Farm Bureau Co-operative association did 18 per cent more business than over a similar period last year.

W. B. Davis, bureau manager, said that five employees of the county bureau would be in Columbus today and tomorrow attending a livestock nutritional school at Ohio State university.

Sent as winners in a feed sale contests during October, the five are, Carl Smith and Donald Finkbine of Mansfield, Glenn Loveland, Shelby; C. A. Griebling, Lexington; and Howard Forbes, Belleville.

FILM CANCELLED

Cancellation of a motion picture presentation by the Johnny Appleseed junior high school Parent-Teacher association was announced today by G. W. Harmony, school principal.

The film, "Maid of Salem," was to have been presented Friday in the school auditorium, but because of a booking conflict the showing here was cancelled.

Money for tickets already sold is being refunded, Harmony said.

In Hongkong one can hire a sedan chair with four bearers at the equivalent of 20 cents, United States currency, for one hour.

Kidnap Victim

Miss Marian Noel, above, an Illinois school teacher, is recovering at her Bettendorf, Ia., home from the harrowing experience of being kidnaped by a bandit wearing an army uniform. The bandit kidnaped, robbed and assaulted Miss Noel.

"Make it a REAL Thanksgiving with these Mince and Pumpkin FULL FLAVOR Pies" says AUNT JENNY

"TRYIN' to decide which pie to make is just best. So make both, folks, and hear the compliments. This Pumpkin Pie has an extra luscious crust, but to get the FULL entire flavor you must have a delicate nutmeg crust. Don't risk ordinary shortening's that might give off-flavor. Use pure Spry for this one, every pie!"

Colonial Pumpkin Pie
1 1/2 cups canned pumpkin
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup evaporated milk
Spry pie shell
Combine pumpkin, brown sugar, salt, spices and mix well. Add eggs and milk. Pour mixture into unbaked pie shell. Bake in oven (425° F.) 40 to 45 minutes, or until a knife inserted comes out clean. Serve slightly warm or cold with wedges of sharp cheese. Molasses may be used instead of pumpkin. Spry Pie Shell

1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
Sift flour and salt together. Add 1/2 of Spry and mix well. Add remaining 1/2 of Spry and mix well. Roll 1/2-inch thick. Place dough in 9-inch pan and fit pastry into pan. Trim pastry 1 inch larger than pan and turn back edge. Flute rim.

Aunt Jenny's Nectar Mince Pie

"BE sure to make one, folks, for you'll get compliments by the bushel. It's my extra special Mince Pie with nuts, raisins, fruit juices and other good things added. An' that tender, delicate Spry-crust lets you get their FULL flavor. Don't risk ordinary shortening's in this or any pie. Use pure Spry for FULL FLAVOR cakes an' fried foods, too. An' now, my recipe—"

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup corn syrup
1/2 cup (light or dark) molasses
1/2 cup Spry
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1/2 cup minced meat
1/2 cup walnuts, chopped
1/2 cup pecans, chopped
1/2 cup vanilla
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 recipe Spry Piecrust

Combine sugar, corn syrup, salt and Spry and bring to a boil. Beat eggs and add raisins, mince, nuts, vanilla and fruit juices. Add hot sirup gradually. Cool. Roll 1/2 of dough and line a 9-inch pie plate. Fill pie shell with mixture. Moisten edge of pie with water. Roll remaining dough for top crust and prick with fork to allow steam to escape. Put on top crust and seal edge. Arrange a few "leaves" (cut from dough) on top as shown in picture. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 30 to 35 minutes.

Spry Piecrust
2 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
Sift flour and salt together. Add 1/2 of Spry and mix well. Add remaining 1/2 of Spry and mix well. Roll 1/2-inch thick. Place dough in 9-inch pan and fit pastry into pan. Trim pastry 1 inch larger than pan and turn back edge. Flute rim.

Everybody's agreed now. And it's official. There'll be no post-season gridiron fracas between Massillon and Mansfield high school.

The story that there would be one, possibly in Akron's Rubber Bowl, sprang up right after the Mansfield-Massillon 6-6 deadlock. And was denied promptly by Principal Glenn Rohleder of Mansfield high school.

Now Massillon also has denied the yarn. I don't know that we need wait for denials from any other sources.

Reports the Massillon Independent:

"Coach Houghton told of invitations the Tigers have received to play post-season games in the state of Washington, in Massachusetts, in Alabama, as well as a suggestion for a return game with Mansfield in the Rubber Bowl. All have been turned down, he said."

Tigers and Tigers admit they're done. They've battled enough for '41.

I don't think the Tigers themselves would welcome another brush with Massillon's Tigers this season.

There's no denying that the Mansfield offense doesn't pack all the punch it carried into the Massillon game, and left on the Tiger stadium turf.

Mansfield didn't lose all its power when little Andy Brandt was carried off the field, but it lost an important part of it.

When Brandt was scooting through holes no wider than his feet and then picking his way through enemy secondary defenses, Mansfield opponents had to pull in their defense, and that made end runs and passes work that much better for the Tigers. Now they can afford to spread out a bit.

I don't know whether I told you before, but Jim McDonald, the former Ohio State fullback, and coach of the Springfield high Wildcats, told me:

"That Brandt looks as much like Westfall of Michigan on those spinner plays as anyone I've seen this season."

And Homer McFadden, the old Mansfield high fullback, chimed in with:

"There's a scabbard who really scoots."

Brown, Zup Set for Side Show

Two Coaches Give Drama At State-Illini Fracas.

COLUMBUS, (AP)—Of course the brawny lads play the game but sometimes the football fans get a kick out of watching the coaches too, and Saturday's Ohio State-Illinois game at Buckeye stadium will offer a "natural" bench drama.

On one side we'll have grizzled Robert C. (Bob) Zupke, 62 years, whose Illinois teams have won 131 games, lost 79 and tied 12. As a youth (Zupke) was too small to make a western conference football team at Wisconsin.

Across the field from him 33-year-old Paul E. Brown will sit (and stand) as he nurses his Buckeye team through his seventh big time contest, his record five won and one lost. The peppy but slender Brown also didn't pack enough weight to play big time football although his quarterbacking made him a standout at Miami university.

It was way back in 1913 that the University of Illinois called Zupke to guide its grid teams after he had attracted attention by high school coaching at Muskegon, Mich., and Oak Park, Ill.

Twenty-eight years later Ohio State put Brown in the driver's seat because Massillon high school lost six and tied two.

So perhaps the boys on the field won't get all the attention from the expected crowd of 45,000.

Although weak on defense, Ohio State's squad is reported full of zip. A possible lineup change may send Charles Csuri in as the starting right tackle in place of Capt. Jack Stephenson. Right guard Lin Houston probably can't play because of an injury in the victory over Pittsburgh; End Pete Hersberger also is on the shelf; and Third-string Halfback Paul Sweeney has a twisted knee.

The Illini have yet to produce their "big upset" of the year—almost an annual event under Zupke.

Ohio State has turned back Illinois for six straight years, but the last time they lost—it cost them a championship, Zupke's "flying trapeze" did the trick then. Long before then, in 1919, it was also a Zupke team that blasted Chic Harley and Ohio State, 9-7.

Of more recent date, and the Buckeyes no doubt did see this in the papers, the Illinois upset Tom Harmon and Michigan in 1939. That was the last year Illinois won a Big Ten game. Illinois got back to work yesterday after a two day vacation, but looked anything but impressive against freshmen using Buckeye plays.

Touchdown Tactics
By DANA X. BIBLE
TEXAS Football Coach

THE SITUATION: Your team has the ball in the middle of the field, second and one
Two yards to go. It is in the middle of the last quarter and the score is tied 0-0. There is a slight wind in your favor.
Most of the game has been played out of the scoring zones, neither side having been consistently successful in completing passes or breaking away. You have, however, been able to make a couple of yards almost every time your fullback took the ball into the line.
The other team has kept its secondary up to bolster its line, with halfbacks in position to assist the defensive ends on wide plays and to blanket the flanks on short passes. The opposing secondary is alert and noted for its pass defense. Your passer is strong-armed but not always accurate. Your kicker is proficient at "coffin-corner" punts and quick-kicks. The lines are well-matched. Given the following choices:

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?
1. Send the fullback after a first down?
2. Pass?
3. Run a sweep or reverse?
4. Surprise the opposition with a quick-kick, or put them in the hole with one out of bounds inside the 20?

By LOWELL 'RED' DAWSON
Tulane Football Coach

THE SITUATION: It's your ball, fourth down on your opponents' 45-yard line with a yard and a half to go and four minutes of the second quarter remaining. The score is 0-0.
Both teams appear to be evenly matched on the offense and defense. The opposition has been fairly successful with passes and has shown running strength. Your own passers have not been so effective because of a wind against them in this quarter, but the running attack has been consistently good since the kickoff, especially on reverses and line backs. You have a good passer, a bruising fullback, and an accurate and dependable kicker. That's your situation. Now, given the following choices.

Touchdown Tactics

THE SITUATION: Your team has the ball in the middle of the field, second and one

Two yards to go. It is in the middle of the last quarter and the score is tied 0-0. There is a slight wind in your favor.

Most of the game has been played out of the scoring zones, neither side having been consistently successful in completing passes or breaking away. You have, however, been able to make a couple of yards almost every time your fullback took the ball into the line.

The other team has kept its secondary up to bolster its line, with halfbacks in position to assist the defensive ends on wide plays and to blanket the flanks on short passes. The opposing secondary is alert and noted for its pass defense. Your passer is strong-armed but not always accurate. Your kicker is proficient at "coffin-corner" punts and quick-kicks. The lines are well-matched. Given the following choices:

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

1. Send the fullback after a first down?

2. Pass?

3. Run a sweep or reverse?

4. Surprise the opposition with a quick-kick, or put them in the hole with one out of bounds inside the 20?

ANSWER

I would punt for the following reasons: First, in case you failed to make a first down the opponents would have the ball in good scoring position. Second, a punt out of bounds deep in enemy territory would put them in a hole, and you have time enough to regain possession of the ball for a desperate last-minute scoring try. No need to be frantic with four minutes left. Play is safe.
